THE CAPTIONED FILMS/VIDEOS PROGRAM: AN OVERVIEW

Public Law 85-905, entitled "An act to provide in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for a loan service of captioned films for the deaf," was approved by the President and the secretary, U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, delegated to the Commissioner of Education the functions vested in him by P.L. 85-905 for the administration of the Captioned Films for the Deaf Program. The purposes, as set forth in the law, are threefold:

> "(1) to bring to deaf persons understanding and appreciation of those films which play an important part in the general and cultural advancement of hearing persons;
>
> "(2) to provide, through these films, enriched educational and cultural experiences through which deaf persons can be brought into better touch with realities of their environment; and
>
> "(3) to provide a wholesome and rewarding experience which deaf persons may share together."

The functions authorized by P.L. 85-905 are to:

> "(1) Acquire films (or rights thereto) by purchase, lease, or gift.
>
> "(2) Provide for the captioning of films.
>
> "(3) Provide for distribution of captioned films through State schools for the deaf and such other agencies as the Secretary may deem appropriate to serve as local or regional centers for such distribution.
>
> "(4) Make use, consistent with the purposes of this Act, of films made available to the Library of Congress under copyright laws.
>
> "(5) Utilize the facilities and services of other governmental agencies.
>
> "(6) Accept gifts, contributions and voluntary and uncompensated services of individuals and organizations."

Because of commercial restrictions on certain types of films, however, captioned feature film loans continue to be restricted to deaf persons. In general the various educational media services are available to all types of handicapped children in accordance with published regulations, but in the case of captioned feature films, only groups of 3 or more deaf persons may qualify to receive loans.

OBLIGATIONS OF BORROWERS

Borrowers agree to accept the following responsibilities:

1. To show captioned feature films only to groups of deaf persons.
2. To show borrowed media to no audience where an admission is charged.
3. To project or exhibit no borrowed media by television without prior approval of the Captioning and Adaptation Branch.
4. To use no borrowed media in any manner that will infringe upon or violate any copyright interest.
5. To be responsible for the safekeeping of borrowed media from the time of receipt until return or delivery to a common carrier for return. The borrower may be required to pay the replacement cost of any borrowed media lost or to pay the cost of repairing damage to any borrowed media occurring during such period.
6. To exercise care in projection of 16mm films, including use of a 16mm sound projector and a qualified projectionist.
7. To return borrowed media without rewinding and to make no repairs to borrowed media.
8. To return borrowed media promptly.
9. To return borrowed media in containers (cans and shipping cases) and pay return transportation costs at the library rate. Addressed return labels furnished with the borrowed media shall be firmly affixed to the containers.
10. To report each exhibition of each borrowed media as directed.
11. To report to Modern Talking Picture Service any change in the name of the person responsible for ordering media, or any change of address to which borrowed media are to be directed.
12. To include a correct postal zip code number at all times.
13. To make sure that a person will be present to receive borrowed media at regular delivery hours.

VIDEOCASSETTE INFORMATION

MULTI-LEVEL LINGUISTIC CAPTIONING PROJECT

Popular children's television programs have been captioned according to an innovative method of caption writing for hearing-impaired students which has been developed at The Caption Center, WGBH-TV, Boston. A special unit – the Multi-level Linguistic Captioning Project* – has devised a set of guidelines for controlling vocabulary, syntax and inferential content at three levels of reading difficulty. This system is primarily based on linguistic and reading research. Most programs have been captioned at a single language level but a few have been captioned at more than one level. They may be used to reinforce reading and language skills since the captions have been tailored to the needs of hearing-impaired readers.

The three captioning levels are briefly characterized as follows:

LEVEL 1

At Level 1, extensive condensation and rewriting of the verbatim script are necessary to maintain simplicity of language for the beginning reader. Sentences are short and simple, following basic subject-verb-object word order. Vocabulary is limited to words typically found in second grade basal readers for hearing children and few idioms are used. To maximize understanding, captions restate ambiguous or implied information directly and explicitly, and information which is crucial to understanding the main theme of the program is repeated.

LEVEL 2

Level 2 contains more sophisticated program ideas conveyed through increasingly difficult grammatical constructions. Compound sentences and more frequent use of adverbs and prepositional phrases make caption sentences longer. Vocabulary is enlarged to include words found in third grade texts, some words with double meanings, as well as common idioms. There is less repetition of key ideas and the inclusion of more detail. In general, an attempt is made to interpret implied meanings, minimizing reliance on the reader's ability to draw inferences.

LEVEL 3

Level 3 represents the most difficult reading task, requiring the ability to understand some types of complex sentences. Captions contain fourth grade words and a greater number of idiomatic expressions than the two simpler levels. This allows captions to follow the original audio track more closely, conveying more information as well as giving more richness and flavor to the captioned program.

These television programs were selected for captioning because they are entertaining and at the same time teach social values and convey world knowledge. Each videocassette comes with a program guide which gives a summary of the story and highlights crucial or difficult words and grammatical sentence constructions.

CAPTIONED CONSUMER SKILLS SERIES

The WGBH Caption Center has also produced a series of videocassettes on consumer information topics. Called Captioned Consumer Skills, this series runs for 15 programs and deals with subjects from legislation for the handicapped to dealing with unemployment.

The programs combine easy-to-read captions with clear, expressive photographs and drawings. To aid hearing users or users with residual hearing, each caption is read aloud. In addition, each program is accompanied by an information sheet that provides suggestions for further reading.

The tapes are available on 3/4" U-Matic, 1/2" VHS and 1/2" Beta formats.

Captioned Consumer Skills was produced under a grant from the Office of Consumers' Education, U.S. Department of Education. However, the opinions expressed in the tapes do not necessarily reflect the position of the Department of Education, and no official endorsement should be inferred.

Captioned Consumer Skills is copyrighted 1981, by the WGBH Educational Foundation. The tapes are intended for use by social service agencies, hospitals, schools or colleges, libraries, deaf clubs and organizations, rehabilitation programs and other nonprofit agencies. All rights are reserved for any other uses, especially rights of duplication. Cable or closed-circuit transmission is also prohibited.
